HOPPER HISTORY

In 1950, brothers Ian and Tony Hopper, set out to start a civil construction company. Later joined by brothers Guy and Bill, they created developments around Auckland, and in 1967 the innovative Pauanui Ocean Beach Resort on the Coromandel was initiated. From 1987 Ian's son, Leigh, took over part of the family business, broadening activities into canal developments, retirement living, commercial, retail and residential building, marine developments, and more. Today the third generation is taking hold of the reigns including Leighs' son Gray, daughter Shana, and nephew Andy. Moving forward, we are very fortunate to be accompanied by a long-standing team of dedicated employees. The future of Hoppers is exciting and promising.
