

Dan Travis is a writer and tennis coach. He is a Co-Founder at The Art of Winning Tennis and has been working to create a theoretical framework for tennis players of all levels to improve. Dan studies the forces that act on the player during a tennis match (both internal and external) and works with players to meet the challenge these forces represent. He runs online and on court programs designed specifically to improve a player's Competitive Intelligence.