SUMMARY OF OBJECTIVES & DESIGNS

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Probo.CI is a web application used by developers to do testing, front end analysis and regression testing of web-based applications across a variety of technologies. The app web site is designed to allow developers and other users to look at the projects and builds within those project for management and debugging purposes.

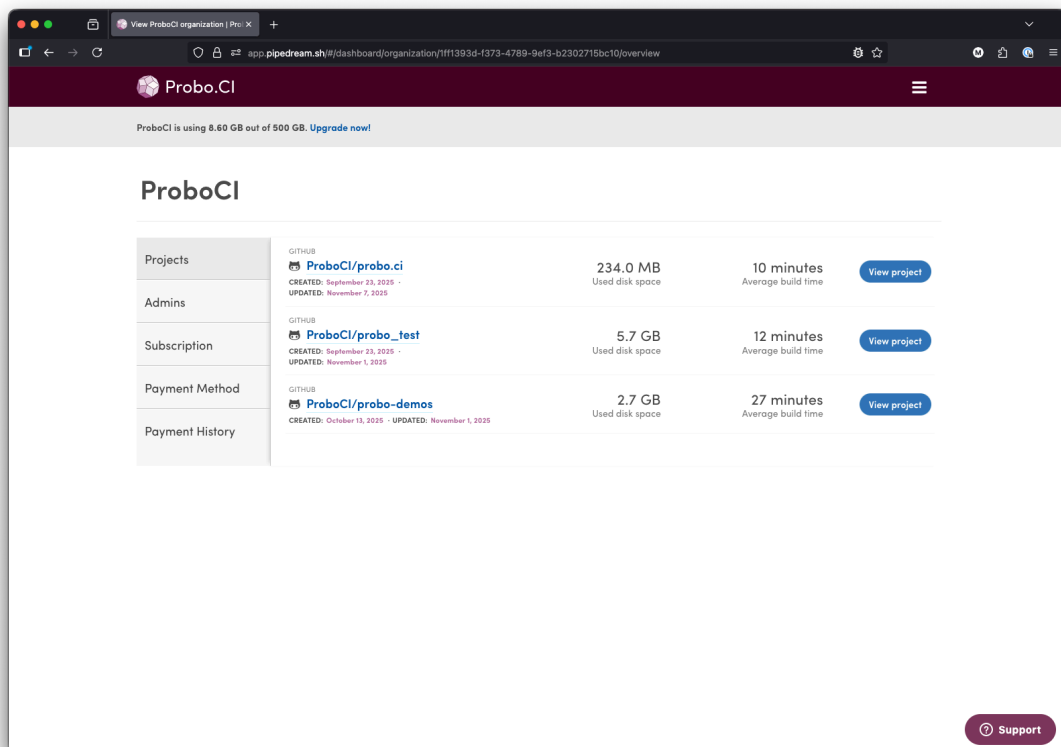

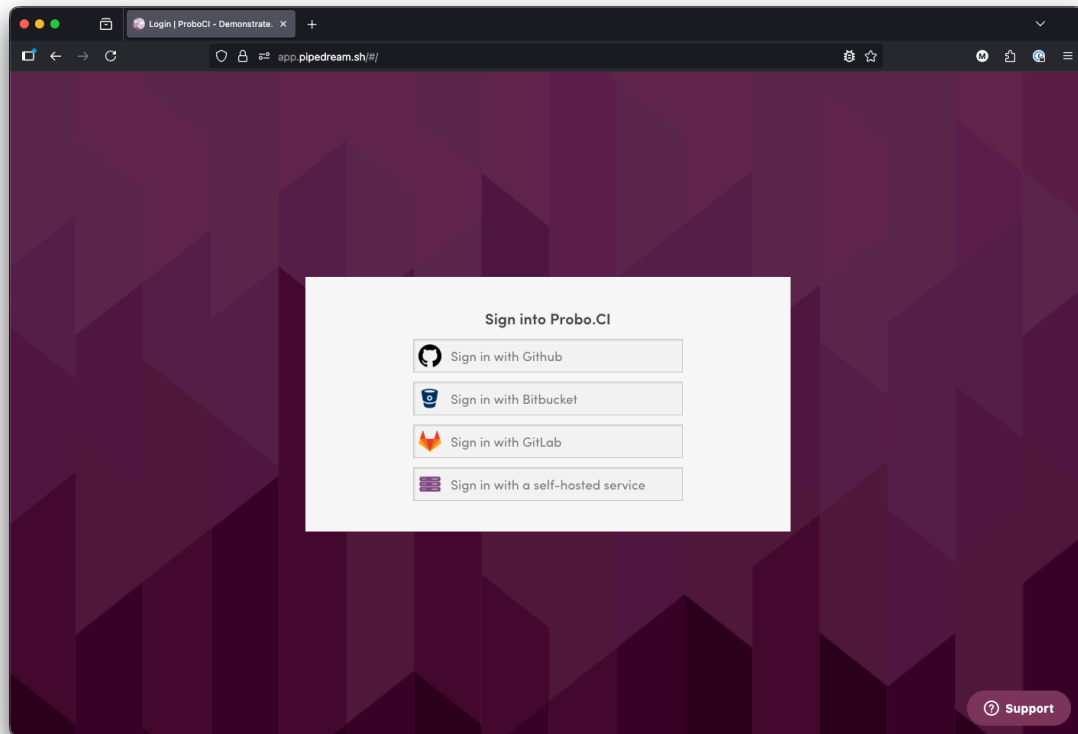

DESIGN PAGES NEEDED

Detailed below are the pages that are needed for the design. I have provided a bare wireframe for both desktop and mobile versions of the following pages. We would like the design to be responsive - in that the design is done in a manner in which it will translate well to mobile

SPECIAL NOTE: I welcome modest outside the box ideas. Even though I have guidelines, Feel free to hit me with something creative I may not have thought of.

1. Logos: The existing logo is to be used and is attached in an Adobe Illustrator format.
 2. The font used for Text should be Roboto except where it applies to the logo.
 3. Color Palette:
 1. FFFFFFF - Background color (#000000 for dark mode)
 2. EEEEEEE - Primary Background for Options
 3. EAEFF5 - Secondary Background for Options
 4. 0F1D38 - Primary Color
 5. FFAA00 - Secondary Color
 4. We need designs for a login screen and three very similar interior page screens. Because the app requires a GitHub, GitLab or Bitbucket account to login, screen shots are attached to this treatment. Please review those for the designs needed.
 1. Login Page
 2. Project Index page (with sidebar tabs for other options. Those specific pages do not need to be coded once we have the template).
 3. Project build list. A list of the builds available per project
 4. Build details. This shows the build steps and results of the build steps.
 5. The site should be visually compatible with <https://proboweb.azurewebsites.net>. The same logo and color scheme (logo attached)
 6. General templates are desired that we can build on.
 7. There is a significant bonus tip involved if you're willing to provide a toggle for a light and a dark mode. I do not know what this would look like but feel free to present proposals.
