Independence™*

Technology Enabled Independent Living

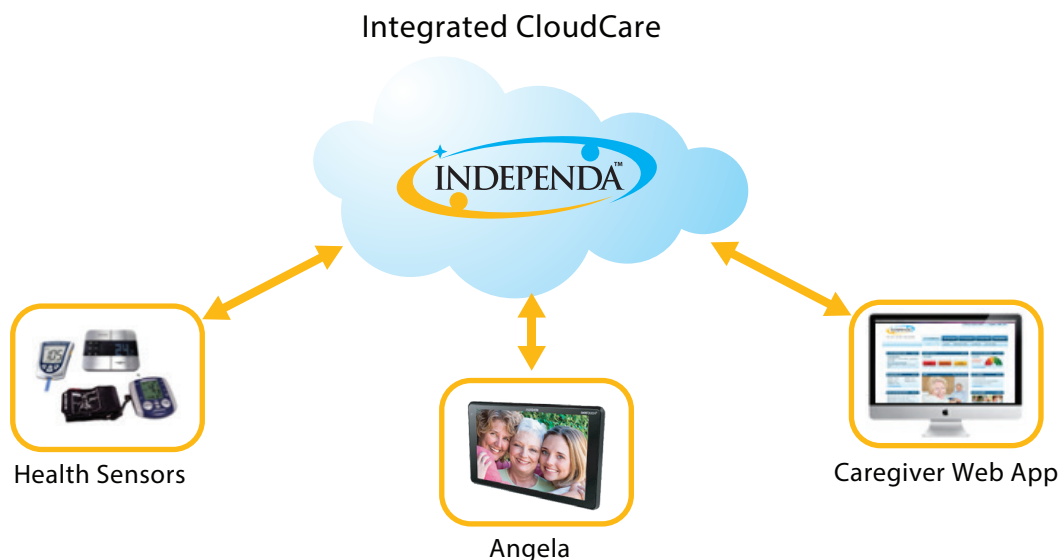

Independa, Inc. offers an integrated, easy to use suite of technology enabled independent living solutions. Independa's award winning, cloud-based solutions integrate with third-party health, safety and activity sensors to provide an effective solution for care recipients to stay at their residence of choice longer, safer and more comfortably. We call this supported independence.

The Problem

All too often, "independence" for the elderly is fraught with isolation, loneliness, and a lack of social interaction – all well known contributors to difficulty with medication schedules, overall health issues and even depression. While the strong desire to "age in place" is well understood and practically universal, often there is a need for various levels of care to support an individual's independence – examples include reminders for prescriptions, appointments, daily social engagement, or for the timely use of health devices to manage chronic diseases, as well as precautionary activity, environmental and safety monitoring. Additionally, a transition to the next stage of care is likely to be as difficult emotionally as it is financially. The delivery of proper, effective care is often further complicated by a disconnected view of the care recipient between the involved parties.

Our Unique Solution – Redefining Independence

Independa is redefining independence with a unique and compelling blend of proactive technologies helping professional and family caregivers extend and enhance the independence of care recipients at their residence of choice. Independa Integrated CloudCare is a holistic system driven by our Caregiver Web Application, "Angela" for the care recipient (offered via a television or a dedicated tablet), and an integrated suite of wireless health devices and home sensors. No computer skills are required by the care recipient.
