

Comfort Caregivers are professional and well trained. What truly sets them above other in-home caregivers, however, is their natural gift for caring for others. They have a heart for in-home service and Comfort Care has a thorough screening and interviewing process to identify them from those less devoted.

Only those who pass this process go on to complete training to deliver our special brand of home care and become Comfort Caregivers. Our Comfort Caregivers also pass extensive background checks and complete continuing education. Also, they're bonded, insured, carry certified ID and covered by Workers' Compensation insurance to protect our clients and their families and because our in-home caregivers are ComfortCare employees, we take care of their payroll taxes and insurance. Comfort Care is family owned locally, not franchised, so your personal service and satisfaction is our only goal.
