Where²
START

A combination of the above things as your main inspiration would most likely produce what I am after.

I see my logo having a multicolour design on the left hand side. Then the Where 2 start logo on the right. Each subdivision will have it's service written in colour under the Where to start brand name. Each subdivision will use a different colour for their name.

For the Main business 2 will have colour (lime green), When the logo is for a subdivision the logo will be focused on the colour of that division.

I prefer this lime green colour and these fonts are also good for the words but the font of the 2 could be more effective as could
