

We like the blocks for this one. Could our blocks say Hasentree then underneath it say Child Development Corner, or you could put the logo in a block and say Child Development Corner underneath it? Maybe have a child leaning on a block incorporating an element of learning.

Demonstrates different elements of learning. This is busy, but gets you excited about everything they are learning about.

Examples of what we have used in the past for kids programming. We love this emblem we put on Camp t-shirts because it shows children participating in so many activities. Incorporating the kids silhouettes (like below) - or even a single child- with the childrens blocks (above) could be a great combo. We want it to show off different elements of learning.
