Agents fined

Almost three dozen Alberta real estate agents have been fined in the past two years for misrepresenting the size of condominiums in real estate listings, representing a small fraction of complaints made to the provincial regulator. The infractions have ranged from errors of a few square feet, to errors of more than a hundred square feet, in the "registered size" category for condominiums listed on the MLS system. "It's an issue that's fundamental to consumer protection," said condominium lawyer Hugh Willis, who was approached for assistance by an Edmonton resident, and who has lodged 1,100 complaints on the issue since 2014 with the Real Estate Council of Alberta.
