

Here are all of the compared logos on one page. Each one of these designs is different from the other.

The argument that your newest design on the bottom is that different from the top logo is ridiculous. Also, 4 leaf people is different from 3 leaf people. The design we like is in the middle and has different dimensions and shapes from the top logo. The head size is different, the leaf shape and size is different and the interior white space is different. Your newest design varies in these same attribute just in different ways. The sharpness is negative and angry and we do not like it. If the newest logo on the bottom is different, then the design we picked in the middle is different.
