

Kerry Gallagher is the Director of K-12 Education for ConnectSafely.org, in addition to her full-time role as Digital Learning Specialist at St. John's Prep in Danvers, Massachusetts. In 2015, the Family Online Safety Institute recognized her with the Outstanding Achievement Award and she was a MassCUE Featured Educator. Most recently, Kerry was the opening Ignite speaker for ISTE's 2016 conference, is a 2016 ASCD Emerging Leader, and was awarded the 2016 MassCUE Pathfinder Award for her leadership in education technology in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

In this presentation Kerry will discuss ways to help parents better understand the role of technology in their children's lives at home and at school. There are many challenges as well as opportunities that are created with the myriad of ways that our children access both technology and media. Parents should feel excited – not intimidated – by what their children are able to access, learn and do. It is our hope that you leave the evening feeling both positive and empowered.
