EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Osage Nation Environmental Solutions, LLC (ONES) is a tribally-owned Small Disadvantaged Business and Indian Small Business Economic Enterprise (ISBEE). The company's core competencies include environmental compliance, consulting, and remediation.

ONES is backed by the Osage Nation, a tribal government with diverse holdings and one that is committed to environmental workforce development and job training programs. This includes recruitment, education, and placement services for local, unemployed, and under-employed tribal members. Building long-term partnerships and local expertise is just one way the company aims to advance its mission to preserve and protect the land, air, water, and natural resources.

LEADERSHIP AND EXPERTISE

David Conrad, President of ONES, is an Osage tribal member and former deputy director for the U.S. Department of Energy Office of Indian Energy Policy and Programs. He brings 20 years of experience in intergovernmental affairs within the areas of energy, environmental, economic development, and natural and cultural resources.

Ray Clark is a recognized subject matter expert and past principal deputy assistant secretary of the U.S. Army (Installations and Environment), where he was responsible for worldwide Army facilities and acted as steward of more than 14 million acres. This encompassed military construction, family housing, all real estate transactions, and its environmental and natural resource management program.
