Spirulina is best known as a blue green algae. It is one of the most nutrient-dense, plant-based sources of protein on the planet. Fresh Spirulina is the most easily digestible plant based protein which our bodies instantly recognize and use as raw material cellular building blocks. Transforming our health one spoonful at a time! Raw Living Spirulina is primarily a blue protein called phycocyanin – light-harvesting pigments that capture the red, yellow and blue spectrum of the sun – found no where else on the planet except in blue-green algae.

Spirulina is one of the oldest life forms on Earth known as the “root of life”. In fact, this blue-green microalgae is partly responsible for producing the oxygen in the planet’s atmosphere that billions of years ago allowed the planet’s originating life forms to develop. Spirulina is the world’s first superfood, and one of the most nutrient-rich foods on Earth.
