Former Evanston Township Student

'Most of my pre-college, educational life was overshadowed by the "opinions" of uninformed and lazy educational "professionals" and "administrators," who neglected to identify my learning style, because it was more convenient to give a generic diagnosis rather than to understand my personality and natural intelligence. My parents hired Sam as a tutor to try and help me from being an average/mediocre student into an exceptional one. All failed, except for Joe Krupnick. Joe's approach focused on identifying my strengths and applying them to a systematic process aimed at equipping me with the perspective needed to tackle highly complex problems. This systematic process is what helped me the most because I felt the set of skills I acquired to be only complete for the real world but to excel past my peers, taking me from an average C/D high school student to Dean's list honor student in college. Throughout college I applied the Krupnick Approach's process to tackling the challenges of my international business and economics major, becoming well known as a prolific student contributor, receiving praise and accolades for departmental and campus contributions. Today, post-college, I enjoy my challenging career as a top performing Account Executive at a Fortune 500 technology company, communicating the value of highly complex innerworking technology solutions to customers throughout the Midwest. I owe much to having the Krupnick Approach to train, mentor, and tackle the rigors of competing in corporate America.'

Graduate of Harvard College (Class of 2012)

If you're looking to improve your personal or academic situation, then don't waste your time or money on a second rate service – just do it right from the start. His approach is unparalleled. Take advantage of this opportunity to learn from a man who mastered both sides of academe: the student and the teacher."

Junior at St. Ignatius

I have always significantly struggled with standardized testing, and was initially worried about tackling the ACT. My grades in school never parallelled to my test scores, which was always really frustrating. Joe put my worries to rest and helped me approach each section with focus and strategy. With hard work, The Krupnick Approach helped me improve my score by nine points. Windows of opportunity have opened up for me since Sticking with the Krupnick Approach was one of the best decisions I have made. I am so grateful!

Junior at Walter Payton College Prep

Burned to The Krupnick Approach for ACT tutoring, and I am very pleased with myresults. I signed up for the bronze program and was able to work with threewonderful tutors. They were all extremely well-qualified and helped metremendously. Each of them taught me how to find strategies that I used on theofficial ACT, allowing me to score 4 points in math and 3 in reading. Useful test-wasthe many practice tests The Krupnick Approach provides. These tests arecondicted in an atmosphere similar to the one encountered on test day. This notonly made me feel more comfortable with the testing process but also helped medetermine the types of mistakes I made during a full, timed ACT. Finally, working with my tutors some might it'd securing an individualized learning plan for me I am happy to say that, with the help of the Krupnick Approach team, I was ableto surpass my goal and ended up with a 34 composite score on the ACT

Steven Levitt
University of Chicago Economics professor, co-author of the best-selling Freakonomics books and their sequels, and father of four Lab School students

"I've known Joe Krupnick for twenty years. When it comes to improving test scores and getting students into top colleges, he is the man. I've used him with all my children, and even my German niece (who got into the University of Chicago with Joe's help). One thing I love about the Krupnick Approach is how highly tailored it is to each individual student. I was so amazed by how creatively and thoughtfully the test prep and test taking strategies were customized around individual strengths, weaknesses, and personalities. I'd recommend the Krupnick Approach to anyone!"

Former Harvard College Student

'Joe taught me at Harvard University. He would lead weekly lectures and discussions / debates on sociological topics with ~30 highly motivated and smart Harvard undergraduates. Joe was an absolutely excellent teacher – he is brilliant and clear, challenging and supportive at the same time. He believes in his students and he is able to explain highly complex materials. Not only is he committed to helping others through education, but he has talent doing it. I would strongly recommend him.'
