

High Value Rewards that drive Customer Loyalty

Teaming your program with other businesses creates a high value proposition to the shoppers you all have in common.

Seven levels of multi-channel business marketing

1. FuelCents Reward Program

FuelCents presents shoppers with a unique opportunity to collect and accumulate fuel rewards across hundreds of touch-points, all along their shopping journey. The opportunity for each purchase to add yet more FuelCents to the collection, presents attractive motivation for shoppers to seek out stores and products that reward their desire for cheaper fuel.

2. In store Promotion

iMobileMedia Business Marketing delivers a monthly program for professional in store promotion and product merchandising. Promotion assets include FuelCents merchandising display stands, 'Spend in store get FuelCents' posters and banners, as well as window strips and a range of different FuelCents ticketing for values from 2 c/L to 20 c/L. Custom display material is also available for various brands or with your own design.

3. Mobile and Online Marketing Communication

Registering with the iMobileMedia platform connects your business to a target of thousands of shoppers in your market. You speak to these shoppers by connecting your in store promotion activity to the mobile and online community using FuelZap.com. Just registering your business creates a simple 'spend in store' offer. From this point you are able to advance your marketing to soon feature weekly or monthly specials.

4. Shopper insights and analytics

The shopper insights platform provides stores with market intelligence on where shoppers are going and what is influencing purchasing decisions each week.

Shopper insights are critical to help frame the competitive presentation of your business services, product range, pricing and rewards. It can be developed to report and track measures like shopper proximity, recency and frequency, average value, and loyalty program participation.

5. Co-sponsored supplier program

iMobileMedia works closely with suppliers to foster true retail marketing collaboration. Many suppliers are open to supporting tactical FuelCents promotions by co-sponsoring a reward offer on a 50/50 basis. iMobileMedia propose to list a range of co-sponsored brand offer opportunities on the Business Marketing platform by product category.

6. Play Ten Pin Money

Due out later this year, TenPinMoney works a little like a coffee club, collect ten pins and get a reward. The TenPinMoney application however uses gamification to create a highly engaging application that initiates (seemingly) random actions and opportunities that can move the target closer or improve the prize, to influence shoppers' behaviour and reward loyalty.

7. Multi-channel media activity

iMobileMedia leverages the power of television, radio and other mainstream media to promote FuelCents and the value proposition offered by the network of participating businesses and brands. This activity also advertises 'Win Free Fuel for a Year' and other promotions that shoppers can enter simply by claiming purchases from your store.

You can choose to feature your business as part of the media advertising program. How Business Marketing connects your in-store promotion presence with channel marketing campaigns.
